In consequence of the opposition to the pipe line the price for carrying oil was long since reduced from $1 25 to 17 cents per barrel. The old figures now prevail

The committee on Pacific railroads postponed for two weeks the consideration of the bill extending the provisions of the sinking fund act.

The senate committee reduces appropriations for additional clerks in the pension bureau from $6[illegible],900 to $49 900, and for the war department from $39,000 to $32 000. The second auditors also have additional clerks to clear off the pension business.

Looking after the Nicaragua Canal.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—A Washington special to the Telegram says the steamship Adams which sailed from San Francisco under sealed orders, is destined for Panama and will go from thence to Nicaragua. This movement shows that our government is looking after the canal business. It is understood that a portion of the Nicaragua canal will be surveyed by the officers of the Adams.

The Refunding Question Settled.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The house committee on ways and means disposed of the refunding question this morning. The rate of interest was decided in favor of 3½ per cent by a vote of 10 to 2. The question of time settled by a decisive vote of 12 to 1 in favor of 20-40 bond. The interest on these bonds to be paid quarterly, and they to be issued in funding the fives and sixes amounting to about $500,000,000. The committee decided also to recommend that authority be given the secretary of the treasury to issue $200 000 000 of 4 per cent. treasury notes, redeemable at pleasure to assist in the reduction of the annual interest burden in the manner proposed by Kelley. Those in favor were Representatives Wood, Tucker, Gibson, Carlisle, Phelps Felton, Conger, Dunnell, Frye and Kelley. Opposed, Representatives Garfield and Gerryson. Representative Mills not voting. A sub committee consisting of Representatives Wood, Frye and Carlisle was appointed to confer with Secretary Sherman and agree upon the exact phraseology of a bill embodying the features agreed upon by the committee. It is expected the bill will be constructed upon the basis of Representative Wood's bill, with modifications and the changes adopted by the committee will be prepared and reported to the house on the call of the committee Tuesday night.

More Partisan Villainy.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—A Washington special says the house committee on elections decided to unseat Washburn, republican, in favor of Donnelly, democrat. This will give the democrats another state in case of a tie in the presidential election. Washburn had 3000 majority. The claim of bribery will be set up. It is manifest that the deep purpose of the democracy which was revealed in the attempt to steal the state of Maine is again disclosed in this effort to rob the people of Minnesota of their rights. It is not the intention of the sub committee to make a report in writing, but each member will submit his views orally to the whole committee. Such report might not be a pleasant campaign document in possession of the republicans. A democratic member of the sub committee characterized the case as a very difficult and perplexing one, and hoped the action of the committee would commend itself to lovers of good government and fair dealing throughout the country. It is ascertained that it is proposed to reject 1700 votes of Washburn's 3012 majority by throwing out the entire vote of Minneapolis.

Ohio Set Back Again.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The Journal's Washington special says the senate having rejected all the Ohio supervisors of census on account of their being republicans, democrats are anxiously watching to see what the president will do next. An Ohio republican of prominence says the president does not intend to submit to any dictation but will nominate other republicans for the positions without regard to the threat conveyed by the action of the senate.

A Doomed Bill

It is certain that the bill agreed upon by the ways and means committee for a 3½ per cent bond cannot become a law as there will be strong opposition in the house. If it passes this body the senate will not agree to it. A member of the senate finance committee says his committee will report in favor of a 4 per cent bond and it will pass the senate

The select committee of the house upon alcoholic liquor traffic instructed Representative Bremer to report a bill to the house providing for the appointment of a commission of ten members to investigate the subject to serve without pay and to be selected irrespective of their views upon the liquor traffic. The Soldiers' Bounty Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—Speaker Randall has consented to recognize Congressman Finley on Monday next to move a suspension of the rules for the consideration of the bill to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war. The bill provides a bounty of $8⅓ per month for the service of each soldier who enlisted between April 1 1861 and before July 15 1865 all previous bounties received to be deducted including bounties paid by states and counties. With the view of getting an approximation as to how much money would be required to meet such claims Finley addressed a letter to Secretary Sherman asking him to make an estimate. The secretary replied in substance that it was impracticable to make an accurate estimate but that the examination in 1874 to ascertain how large a sum would be necessary to satisfy the claims arising from the provisions of a similar bill introduced at that time showed more than $100,000,000 to be needed, together with a force of 250 additional clerks for four years in the office of the second auditor

THE IRISH FAMINE.

The N Y "Herald" Urges Early Reports of Subscriptions to Aid the Irish.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The Herald this morning says: "We regret to say that as yet no returns have been made by a large number of gentlemen and firms to whom the Herald's Irish famine blanks were intrusted. In a great many instances we know these blanks contain the names of persons who in the aggregate have subscribed a good deal of money, and we are aware that they are held back in order that their custodians who are so generously co-operating with the Herald may be enabled to make as good a showing as possible in print. Their motive is exceedingly creditable, but we are certain they will not misinterpret our meaning when we say they are unwittingly putting back the cause they at heart so earnestly desire to advance. The Herald will esteem it a great favor on the part of these gentlemen if they will make their returns as early as possible to-morrow. The newspaper editors and other gentlemen in outside towns and cities who are so nobly aiding the Herald will also place us under obligations if they will forward their subscriptions and subscription lists by same time. No doubt the telegraph companies will in all cases enable them to transmit their money without waiting for the slow process of mails

The Cause and Remedy.

In the house of commons to day, Mitchel Henry gave notice that he would introduce a resolution declaring that the famine is due to the undeveloped condition of the resources of Ireland, which should be developed from imperial resources. He also gave notice that if his resolution was adopted, he would move an industrial commission be appointed and intrusted with £20 000 000, as half gift and half loan from the public works

THE REICHSTAG OPENED

Emperor William's Talk to his Law-makers

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

BERLIN, Feb 12—The session of reichstag was opened to day. The speech from the throne states that the relations of the government with all foreign powers is peaceful and friendly and confidence is felt in the maintenance of peace through the labors of the Berlin congress which has been upheld and the stipulations of the treaty of Berlin executed in nearly all their points. The empire would zealously and unselfishly and conscious of its own power continue to participate in the endeavors to secure lasting peace for Europe in consonance with the pacific disposition of its people and with that object would endeavor to procure the co-operation and guarantee of powers similarly disposed

The principal measures for legislation announced in the speech are a bill for establishing biennial budgets new military law prolongation of the law against socialists and for a commercial treaty with the South Sea islands. The speech justified military law as a means of security made necessary by increased armaments of neighboring countries. The speech announced an increase of matriculate contributions of the various states a loan to meet the most urgent items of expenditure and modification of the constitution in order to remove some of the disadvantages to the Prussian diet from its sessions being simultaneous with that of the reichstag. In regard to the military law the emperor says he is confident that the whole German nation will demand the protection of the national welfare against danger with the same firmness as the federal government. He declares that the anti socialists have kept the socialists within certain bounds but have not succeeded in altogether preventing them. The attainment of that end is impossible without the extension of the period of the law

The speech was read by Count Von Stolberg Wernigerd, who opened the session in the name of the emperor

Abusing her Neighbors.

BERLIN, Feb 12—The North German Gazette says Germany's army is her weapon of defence and not of attack. We would be very glad if the same could be said with certainty of the armies of our neighbors

A German Paper on the French and other Armies.

BERLIN Feb 12—The semi-official North German Gazette, referring to the warlike interpretation by the French newspapers of the German army bill, says the French army estimates for 1870 were barely 500 000,000 francs, while they now exceed 900,000,000 francs. The French army is better armed and numerically stronger than the German army. The Russian army has also been considerably increased. From the language of some French monarchical journals, it would appear certain that if the parties they represent obtained power they would immediately plunge France into war. In view of this danger Germany, though earnestly a peace government for her own safety, follows the example unfortunately set by her neighbors in their immense armaments

The preface to the socialist bill which will be brought forward in the reichstag points to a manifest spread of the communist idea in France and the supposed identity of communist and socialist aims

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

A View of the British Parliament from Abroad.

BERLIN, Feb 12—The North German Gazette draws attention to the attitude of the Irish Catholic members of the British parliament. It says that the matter has become serious, and a remedy must be sought against the proceedings of this party. The foregoing is regarded here as in direct reference to the attitude which the center party of the German parliament is expected to assume Russian Journals on the Persia-Herat Scheme.

ST. PETERSBURG Feb 12—The Journal De St Petersburg says that the restitution of Herat to Persia has been a tradition in the policy of Russia for the past century. The cession has always been opposed by England, who now abandons her former views out of jealousy of Russia. The latter will not allow herself to be turned from the loyal national policy she has hitherto pursued, which is based upon her good relations with Persia, and if Persia despises her friendship she does so at her peril. The Golos observes that the friendship of Russia is of vital importance to Persia

A Significant Appointment.

PARIS Feb 12—The Soir announces that Gen DeBurg commander 16th Brigade German Infantry has been appointed chief of staff of the 15th Army Corps, stationed at Strasbourg, and adds that the foregoing is very significant, as Gen DeBurg is intimately acquainted with the French army

A Heavy Amendment.

LONDON, Feb 12—To a motion for the second reading of the Irish volunteer bill, Beggar (home rule member for Cavan) handed the clerk the following amendment: That in view of the fact that the government prosecution is hanging over several earnest and true Irishmen for advocating in an intemperate manner an amendment of the iniquities of landlords it is not desirable to put such power into the hands of the executive as proposed by such bill and that it be read a second time this day six months

Various Vexed Questions.

TEHERAN Feb 12—It is rumored the government will shortly propose the appointment of a European commission for the settlement of Persia's northeastern and Attrek frontier. It is also reported that in the spring Persia will dispatch a force to occupy the Afghan Seistan and eventually Herat and that England is fully informed of these intentions and has accepted Persia's proposals and conditions

Hillsboro will soon have a bakery

The Washington county wolf club pays $15 for the scalp of a coyote. One farmer on the Wapato has killed four recently and others have done well. The county it is hoped, will soon be cleared of the sneaking pests

The late storm blew hundreds of trees into the Tualatin and huge drifts now dam up the stream so that the lands contiguous are kept so wet that cultivation in the proper season is out of the question. The stream is so sluggish and the channel so shallow that it must have an unobstructed course or overflow and consequent damage is the result. It will be impossible for the farmers who are affected by the high state of the water to remove the obstruction and legislation for the purpose will be necessary

Beecher on Money

From the Chicago Times

There is admirable blunt honesty about Henry Ward Beecher in some things. For instance he was preaching the other day from the text "The love of money is the root of all evil" and said tersely that men despise the money they haven't got but he never knew a man to despise it when he got it. And that's a gospel truth dead certain

HOUSE OF COMMONS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

LONDON, Feb 12—In the house of commons to day the chancellor of the exchequer denied the truth of the dispatch published this morning stating that a treaty has been signed by which Persia would be permitted to occupy Herat in return for her engagement to assist England in Afghanistan. He said he could not add anything to his recent reply on the subject which was that communications on the subject of releasing Persia from her treaty engagement not to take possession of Herat had been under consideration but the consideration of an understanding with Persia had not yet been reached and it was therefore inconvenient to make any statement

Bourke under secretary of the foreign department replying to Gourley's question as to the claim of the United States government for damages alleged to have been done by Newfoundland fishermen in Fortune bay to the Massachusetts fishing fleet said that no measure had been taken to lead to a pecuniary claim which was still under the government's consideration. No measure had been taken for abrogating or amending clause 33 of the treaty of Washington relative to Canadian and Newfoundland inshore fisheries and that it was not thought necessary to make any communication for ascertaining the purport of the proviso of the convention of 1878

Bourke in the course of his reply to Gourley's enquiry with regard to the fisheries question and the treaty of Washington declared there was no idea of abrogating or amending clause 33 of that treaty

O Donnell this evening resumed his speech on his amendment whereupon many members left the house, the government benches especially were deserted. O Donnell inveighed against the brutal conduct of the police during process serving. He repudiated for himself and the rest of the home rulers the idea that they wished to abolish rent. He condemned arbitrary arrests made in Ireland. The amendment was finally rejected, 178 to 12 and the report of the address agreed to

In a speech on motion for a second reading of the Irish distress bill Synan, home ruler moved an amendment objecting to the use of the church surplus fund for Irish relief. He argued that the advance should come from imperial resources

Colthurst home rule, urged that the government institute works other than sanitary

Sir Stafford Northcote concurred in the opinion that the nature of the works should not be restricted? The government had already appointed three inspectors and had authorized the appointment of three more to superintend the works authorized under the bill. He pointed out that the Irish church fund belonged to the Irish people and as distress only affected Irish people it was not proposed to appropriate any part of the fund, but only to make advances therefrom. No fund could be better used for the relief of distress than the church surplus fund. It would of course be necessary hereafter to consider what should be done to meet the recurrence of such an emergency

After some remarks by several Irish members Lowther chief secretary for Ireland, denied that the government had any idea of protecting the consolidated fund at the expense of the church surplus

Shaw, home ruler, hoped that the amendment would be pressed. The Irish members feared that if assistance were given to landlords it might lead to an increase of rents. He hoped that some words would be introduced into the bill to prevent such a result

SUCKERDOM'S SELECTION

What Illinoisans say as to Presidential Candidates

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

CHICAGO Feb. 12—The Times presents the results of a canvass for presidential preferences of the republicans of Illinois, made by its correspondents within the last three days. The canvass shows Blaine's candidacy for the presidential nomination commands the support of a majority of the republicans of the state. Grant stands second and Washburne a strong third. The Germans are found almost unanimously in favor of Washburne. In three counties only, Kankakee, Logan and Madison were the Germans found disposed to share their support with any other candidate. Blaine is first choice in 47 counties, Grant in 21, Washburne in 5

The Times says the record of the canvass will prove a surprise to the country. By means of it the theory that Illinois may be relied upon to cast her vote for Grant in the national Republican convention is shown to be altogether a mistake. Unless some extraordinary means, such as are sometimes employed by machine politicians, are brought to bear upon the county and state nominating conventions Grant will evidently stand third in the list of Illinois favorite candidates. It is safe to say that in two-thirds of the counties of the state either Blaine or Washburne now leads the 'Strong Man' in choice both of politicians and people. No such manipulation as was successfully employed in Pennsylvania by Cameron can avail to change the choice of the state, for her sentiment for Blaine and Washburne is much stronger and more widespread than was the sentiment for Blaine in Pennsylvania. It could not be overcome, even if Grant had a Cameron in Illinois to work for him, which is certainly not the case

He had torn his shirt into strips which he soaped and twisted into a rope. A piece of broom stick set in the ventilator served for a gallows. Nunez had been denied a new trial and was to have been sentenced Saturday next. He was a Spaniard and aged about 25 years

The Recent Demonstration of Workingmen designed to Influence Legislation

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 12—The recent movements of workingmen are causing some uneasiness in the city but there appears to be no ground for apprehending any disturbance. The best opinion seems to be that the movement is simply designed to influence legislation now pending. Mayor Kalloch, Auditor Dunn and Kearney are at Sacramento for the purpose of lobbying in favor of the bill to enforce the clause in the constitution forbidding corporations to employ Chinese and the workingmen's action here is probably intended to add weight to their arguments. It is therefore unlikely that any resort to violent measures will be had. The authorities recognize the wisdom of being prepared for any emergency that may arise and are prepared to act promptly and effectually if the necessity arises

Quarrel between Editors with Fatal Results.

HOLLISTER Feb 12—A newspaper war culminated this morning by the fatal shooting of S H Brummett, editor of the Enterprise by G W Carlton, editor of the Telegraph. THE MINTO PASS

A memorial has been prepared by Hon John Minto of Marion county, which is now being circulated for signatures, praying congress to grant aid for opening a good wagon road across the Cascade mountains by what is known as the Minto pass. We cannot set forth the objects of the memorial in any other way so well as by giving the document entire. Of course it will be universally signed

To the Honorable Members of the United States Congress: We, the undersigned citizens of the United states and of the state of Oregon, respectfully represent

1st That we believe it to be of great public importance that a stock and wagon road be opened leading across the Cascade mountains from Salem in Marion county, to Prineville in Wasco county, and thence to Reno (southward) to Winnemucca in Nevada (southeastward), to Boise City in Idaho and to Kelton in Utah (eastward)

2d That the route adopted by the Marion and Wasco Stock and Wagon Road Company from Salem to Prineville offers good facilities for the construction of such a road (being five sixths of the distance) through the mountains in the narrow sheltered valley of the North Santiam river

3d That this narrow valley or gorge of the North Santiam river from the east line of township [illegible] south range 3 east of Willamette meridian to a junction with the road system of the east side of the Cascade mountains (a distance of sixty miles) is useless for purpose of settlement without such a road

4th That the construction of such a road would in addition to offering needed facilities for travel between the points mentioned aid greatly in inducing settlement in central and southeastern Oregon northeastern Nevada and southwestern Idaho

We therefore pray that an appropriation of twenty thousand dollars $20 000 (or three sections of land to each mile of the survey) by which their route passes the Cascade mountains be made in favor of the Marion and Wasco Stock and Wagon Road Company under condition that United States mails troops and supplies for troops or other employes of the United States government pass over the road free and that the state of Oregon regulate the tolls upon the same

Kelly and Tilden

From the New York Sun

On the whole the present prospect for the democratic party in the state of New York is not encouraging. It is a good deal like driving a pair of black horses in a night so dark that you cannot see your hand before you. If Tilden is nominated Kelly will defeat him. If Kelly exalts another candidate over him, while Mr Tilden may never protest even in a whisper yet if such candidate shall not by some mysterious influence or sleight of hand suddenly find the ground under him open and swallow him up then all we have to say is that Samuel J Tilden for a man with so many barrels of money is a singularly saintly character

The late Dr Cogswell had the reputation of being the closest book buyer in America. He bought a library of 60 000 volumes for $63 000 an average of $1 05 a volume

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate

WASHINGTON Feb 12

Saunders introduced a bill abolishing salt duties

Davis said he would have moved to take up the motion to reconsider the vote appointing a special committee on the inter oceanic canal if Gordon had been in his seat to day. He was ready to consider the matter at any hour

After the morning hour the consideration of the military warrant bill was resumed and McDonald favored it.

Davis of Illinois from the committee on judiciary reported adversely on the house resolution for the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the present system of salaries fees and emoluments allowed to officers of the United States and to ascertain if any abuses exist. placed on the calendar

Morrill from the committee on education and labor reported a bill to incorporate the National Education Association, placed on the calendar

McDonald argued that all public lands within the states named which by the terms of the enabling acts were to be exempted from state taxation for five years from the sale should be considered so open to sale and that 5 per cent on these were due to the states. He held that a location on military scrip was a sale within the meaning of the acts referred to. The lands were given as a bonus to those who served the government in place of so much money

Thurman made some remarks on the bill, saying he was not yet prepared to oppose or advocate it but sought information. It seemed to him that the lands in military districts and various reservations in Ohio, granted soldiers were included in sales as interpreted by the senator from Indiana (McDonald). Ohio was poor and needed the money of course. But he was not sure that it belonged to her. If these lands were excluded, Ohio would receive $113 000 and be taxed $330 000. This would be a bad speculation for Ohio but if the bill was just he would support it. There had been newspaper statements that the bill was to grant money to rebel states. This was absurd. If passed it would be peculiarly detrimental to all the Atlantic and gulf states and beneficial chiefly to the western and northern states. He held that the lands granted by military warrants were given as compensation in place of cash. Until reading the committee's report he had not thought the states entitled to 5 per cent on any but cash sales but he was not very sure that he would not change his opinion

The discussion then closed.

Blaine submitted the following

Resolved, That the president be respectfully requested to communicate to the senate any information in possession of the government touching alleged false statistics and fabricated testimony imposed upon the Halifax commission and used as a basis of their award in the matter of fisheries. adopted

Wallace, from the committee on appropriations reported with amendments house joint resolution authorizing the secretary of the interior and secretary of war to employ additional clerks, placed on calendar

After executive session the senate adjourned till Monday

House.

Stephens, from the coinage committee reported a bill relative to the metric system of coinage; referred.

It provides for the coinage of the 'Stella,' a metric gold coin, value four dollars, for the coinage of the goloid metric dollar, for the coinage of two dollar pieces and fractions of a dollar, also the coinage of a metric gold double eagle, eagle and half eagle of standard value, for the mintage of ingots of metric gold alloy its deposit in the treasury and the issue of certificates therefor, for making ingots of fine gold and of silver of the value of $100 each, for export, etc, for the coinage of silver dollars and fractions thereof of full standard value on the metric system

Resolutions were adopted authorizing the secretary of the treasury to furnish states, for the use of agricultural colleges, one set of standard weights and measures

Willis, from the education committee, reported a resolution asking the president for information respecting the pending negotiations for a change of the treaty between the United States and China, adopted.

House resumed consideration of court removal bill, and after the morning hour house went into committee on revision of the rules

Discussion ensued on White's amendment preventing engrafting legislation on the appropriation bill.

Blackburne offered an amendment to the first clause of rule 21, relative to the reading of bills; adopted

White offered as a new clause to the same rule the following: "General appropriation bills shall embrace nothing but the appropriation for the ordinary expenses of the different departments of the government and interest on the public debt. All other appropriations shall be made by bills containing only the items of appropriation relative to the subject matter of the bill"

He spoke in favor of the amendment which would make it impossible for the appropriation committee to legislate on appropriation bills.

Conger pointed out the inconsistency which members from the south had shown in voting for the famous rule No 12, which permitted legislation to be placed upon the appropriation bills. Inasmuch as the constitution of the confederacy prevented any such legislation that constitution was in direct opposition to the vote of every man from the south as to the propriety and expediency of that rule. It had become necessary for the present speaker to ask his southern friends to change their views and sustain him in changing the old rules of the house. He looked upon the action of the speaker, when he placed himself at the head of the whole confederate army in the house and compelled them to ignore the action of their wisest and best men and follow him as the greatest triumph which a northern man ever gained over the brigadier generals of the house

Randall was not familiar with the confederate constitution but he said he believed there was no such clause as Conger had stated. He was proud to lead the army of the 44th congress regardless of where they came from, in regard to economy [Applause]

After further sharp shooting Goode urged the propriety of the rule from the point of safety in time of need. It was right to withhold appropriations in case of bad legislation. The rule had permitted the majority to repeal laws allowing the use of troops at the polls and allowed a saving of $30 000 000 in one year and put white jurors in the box where colored had been before almost exclusively

Reed reminded Goode that in his enumeration of the varied benefits which had resulted to the country from the rule he had forgotten to enumerate the greatest benefit, the extirpation of the democratic party which was to occur the next time that the people of the United States had the opportunity to pass upon it [Applause] It showed the people what that party was so eager to do and what it would do whenever it had the power and the result of the erring of the democratic party before the country was always a great and interesting benefit to the people

Springer called the attention of the house to the fact that Garfield had a few years ago been at the head of the committee on appropriations and that when he held that position 150 sections of legislation had been passed upon the appropriation bills. There had never been a time when legislation had not been placed upon the appropriation bills and he thought it a just and righteous way of legislating. The house must not give up this rule, it would save millions

White withdrew his amendment and allowed Spear to introduce a substitute, making it in order to insert a less sum of money for a greater in the bill. He was above partisan consideration. He depicted the anarchy repudiation despotism and slavery which would ensue if the appropriation bill failed. applause

Hawley quoted from the state constitutions showing that 25 out of the 38 prohibited legislation on appropriation bills.

Cox supported the bill as a means of repealing by riders laws which had been enacted by riders and for repealing obnoxious legislation. He was by no means sure that the democrats would be beaten as Reed predicted

Spear withdrew his amendment and Low offered an amendment prohibiting any partisan amendment to appropriation bills and favored it

Garfield offered an amendment that it may be in order to strike out a sum of money from an appropriation bill and insert a less sum. He offered it regardless of party or the minority or majority but as plain business work

McMahon thought the young member, Spear, ought to shake in his boots to find the republicans stand sponsor for his amendment

Spear said he was young but was of a number whose follies cease with their youth [Laughter]

McMahon urged his party not to give up this rule. It was substantially giving up their cause in the next presidential election being a virtual confession of the failure of economy. He was surprised at the unanimity of republicans. It was one of the worst parties ever in power. The rule provided: First, that legislation must be germane; Second that it should retrench expenditures. He was proud that the democrats supported it

Garfield's amendment was rejected [illegible]

Spear's substitute was again offered and Warner offered the following amendment to that substitute:

Sec 5 No appropriation shall be reported in any general appropriation bill or be in order as an amendment thereto for any expenditure not previously authorized by law unless in continuation of the appropriation for such public works and objects as are already in progress nor shall any provision of such bill or amendment thereto changing an existing law be in order except that it shall be in order to reduce the amounts of money provided for by existing law and covered by the bill and to that extent only to change the law

He declared himself opposed to any proposition which would deprive the house of its control of appropriation bills. But on the other hand he insisted the right to make use of the threat to withhold an appropriation was entirely unjustifiable. [Applause on republican side]

Warner's amendment was then agreed to—113 to [illegible] and the question recurred on Spear's substitute as amended pending which the committee rose and the house adjourned

PRESIDENTIAL TALK.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC FACTIONS

Continuation of the Row—Tilden Insists and Kelly Persists.

[From the New York Sun (Dem) Jan. 27]

What is the use of getting into the National Democratic Convention if the candidates nominated by that convention are doomed to certain defeat? What difference does it make whether the Kelly delegation or the Tilden delegation or both or neither be admitted, so long as two delegations are sent? For if two sets of delegates go to the Convention from this State it is pretty sure that the republicans will carry the State by a decisive majority

We believe Judge Church could carry this State if Mr Tilden would heartily support him. We believe Mr Tilden could carry the State if there were no coldness towards him on the part of Judge Church and his friends.

The reason we blame Mr Tilden for this condition of things is because we think there is no good and sufficient cause for its existence. It has seemed to us a fatal mistake in Mr Tilden's tactics that he has tried to control everything in detail. Having had the chance at the Presidency, he should have been content with that and have left all other political and official honors to be shared by the several sections of the democratic party as they themselves could best distribute them

We are certain that Judge Church would have buried the tomahawk and have burned the calumet on the most honorable basis—the only basis for gentlemen and statesmen,—the basis of true friendship for the future without huckstering without terms, and without conditions. Wo worth the day was it when Mr Tilden hesitated and failed to embrace this one, golden grand opportunity of his life.

Now all is discord. It is said that John Kelly is a shortsighted and incapable leader but he was powerful enough to defeat Gov. Robinson.

If anybody can tell us where in the present deplorable condition of things a ray of sunshine is to be discovered lighting up the immediate future of the democratic party in the state of New York we will feel obliged for the information

We know the Kelly men have an answer all ready: Kill off Tilden. The Tilden men respond Kill off Kelly. But neither of these gentlemen is quite ready to be killed off.

If Mr Tilden was as adroit as he is reputed to be and as cunning as he is in some respects able, he would have seen to it that these dissensions in the party should never have reached their present hight and dimensions.

But Mr Kelly and Mr Tilden are both too old to be made over. Such as they are, we have them for leaders,—almost certainly leaders to defeat.

Tilden to be Nominated.

[From the Chicago Tribune,]

We think there can be no longer any doubt that Mr Tilden will be the democratic candidate for President in November next. Of course Mr Tilden's great commendation for the nomination is the certainty which his friends hold out of his obtaining the vote of the State of New York,—a certainty which they insist is not possible with any other candidate. As the vote of New York is essential to the election of the democratic candidate under every condition of probabilities, his claim that he alone can carry that State cannot be ignored. His friends assert that the democratic party has not carried the State of New York since 1860 except at those elections where Mr. Tilden devoted his brain and his money to secure success. Without Tilden's personal and active efforts the State of New York will go republican by 40 000 majority. It is moreover denied that John Kelly and Tammany Hall can repeat the successful bolt of last year. It was then a personal fight against a single candidate on the State ticket, and, though aimed personally at Tilden, the latter was not a candidate. That bolt was a local one, and for a State office. In 1880 Tammany Hall will have to take the responsibility of defeating the whole democratic party of the United States, and in doing this would be indignantly repudiated by every democrat in the land. However willing Kelly and his train bands may be to defeat Tilden personally, they will not and dare not put themselves in direct and open hostility to the whole party of the country, and defeat the election of a democratic President. Any expectations that Tilden, if not nominated, will take any steps towards electing any other candidates must be dismissed as idle. Tilden holds Seymour, with others, personally responsible for the success of Kelly's bolt in 1879. He has no interest in any other candidate. He claims the office as a debt due him by his party and by the country and if he is to be repudiated at the Convention he will simply drop out of politics and let the State of New York go whithersoever it will.

Cleveland Germans and the Presidency.

[From the Cleveland Herald (Rep.)]

The Cleveland Anzeiger contains interviews of 109 Germans of this city on the subject of their choice for the Presidency. They are truly representative men taking in all professions, trades and classes of business. The answer showed that the German Republican sentiment of Cleveland is overwhelmingly in favor of John Sherman. A few expressed a preference for Garfield or Blaine as first choice, but these were but the exceptions proving the rule. A greater number would take Garfield, Washburne or Blaine as second choice, but the great majority wanted Sherman, and cared to go no further. On the subject of Grant's nomination there was an almost unbroken voice of opposition. Two or three were ready to take Grant or Blaine: about the same number more would vote for Grant if nominated, and a few said they would vote for the nominee of the Convention, without going any further in their expression of opinion. But the great mass were outspoken and determined in their opposition to Grant's nomination, and their refusal to vote for him if nominated

North Carolina Politics.

[From the New York Times.]

We give this morning, from our Raleigh correspondent, a careful review of the political situation in North Carolina. It will be seen from the facts which he states that the position of the republicans there is by no means so hopeless as it has generally been regarded, and that there is a very fair prospect of making a break in the ranks of the solid south. It is interesting and encouraging to perceive that the prospects of the republicans are based on their advocacy of a better state government, and that the issues on which they will go to the people have very little reference to anything which can raise the prejudices of race. North Carolina was lost to the republicans as we foretold that it would be by the senseless civil rights legislation of 1874 and it may now be regained by a moderate and judicious policy. Such a victory would be doubly valuable, as it might fairly be regarded as the beginning of the end of a condition of things which has kept the republicans from their just and proper influence throughout the south.

Daniel's Disappointment.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette]

Senator Voorhees does not find the eggs in the exodus mare's nest that he looked for, yet he works cheerfully on. He is determined to prove that the democratic majority in Indiana is in danger. He might have done that without the trouble and expense of a senate investigation. The danger exists, but it grows out of the blunders of the democratic party and the gradual enlightenment of the people, and not out of the arrival of two or three hundred negro voters

KEEPING PAUPERS—The Hillsboro Independent says: W A Luelling went down to Portland this week at the instance of the county commissioners of this county to see if our county paupers cannot be kept cheaper in the Multnomah county poor house than what the county now has to pay. The expense for keeping these paupers is one of the biggest items of expense in the county and ought to be lessened if possible

PESSIMISM

The current number of the [illegible] contains an article on Pessimism by Goldwin Smith written with great clearness and power. The philosophy of pessimism asserts simply and broadly that this is the worst of all possible worlds. Man under this philosophy, is held to be the sport of a blind but irresistible force which in a moment wrecks his happiness or crushes him out of existence. We attempt no review of the [illegible] article, since its statements as to the growth and tendency of the philosophy of pessimism are too close to admit of abridgement. But the mention of it may fitly come in by way of reference to an important phase of the thought of the time. This idea or philosophy has been developed perhaps to its greatest extent by a German thinker named Schopenhauer, who has struck a cold chill to the hearts of most who have had courage to follow him by the black and pitiless deductions he makes from the assumption that this is the worst of all possible worlds or rather by the arguments he presents to support this assumption. He employs terrible force of argument to prove that this world from the lowest living creature to man is a scene of struggle, rapine, fraud, force and cruelty such as a good and merciful creator never could possibly have created that life is not worth living and that the best refuge from its ills, which more than overbalance its good things in the lives even of the most fortunate human beings, is death. Taking a broad view he holds that nature is as careless of the race as she is of the individual, that even the boasted progress that the doctrine of development teaches us to see will end in a corresponding decline, decay and extinction of the human race, and that when the last man is ready to pronounce a verdict on the sum of the results of human existence he will say that it would have been better if it had never been. This doctrine is spreading far and wide in Europe. In Russian nihilism it has developed into a regular system of belief, and is threatening destruction to all existing institutions on the ground that there is neither God, nor religion, nor future life, nor right nor wrong. If this doctrine, pessimism as it is called, be the logical outcome of the negation of the doctrines of theology—and many scientists are now trembling lest it may—then will there surely come a powerful reaction among men against the current skepticisms of the day.

THE RESULT OF TAXING CREDITS.

It must be apparent to every one who considers the subject that efforts to tax credits [illegible] fail. Concealment [illegible] becomes the rule, and [illegible] by the tax gatherer [illegible] of this [illegible] representative [illegible]—that it is scarcely worth taking into account. Besides actual concealment, there are other effective ways. All that is necessary to secure exemption of credits from taxation is to transfer the capital they represent to some other state. If credits are property, the same as tangible things, they must be subject to the law of property and follow the person of the owner. Indeed we believe there are certain decisions of the supreme court of the United States to the effect that credits are not taxable outside of the state that attempts to tax them. Every attempt to tax credits has the effect merely to make the borrower pay the tax, not to the state, but to the lender. That is to say, the attempt to tax raises the rate of interest without decreasing the rate of taxation. The lender exacts enough additional interest to cover the tax, but he himself, by various expedients escapes the tax and pockets the extra interest. Thus the law operates to impoverish the borrower and enrich the lender. It enables the latter to exact a higher rate of interest than the state of the money market would justify, and its only effect is to increase the burden of the borrower. Capitalists who lend can easily free themselves from these attempts to tax them, and not only so, but they can make the proposed raid redound to their profit and in nearly every case they do. This leads to the conclusion heretofore often stated, to wit, that a far more equitable and effective plan would be to abandon all efforts to tax invisible and intangible property, which elsewhere will in nearly all cases manage to escape, no matter what effort is made to levy and collect upon it.

AN ARMED PEACE.

Count Von Moltke is reported as saying that the expense of keeping Germany in readiness for war is small as compared with the loss she would suffer if attacked while unprepared for war. That, as the New York Herald observes, is the theory upon which Europe continues to exhaust itself in the fearful drain of constant military expenditure. On that shallow argument Germany must in a time of profound peace keep under arms year in and year out nearly a half million men lest some day there should be war. Russia must keep a million for the same reason, France as many as Germany, and so on. But the theory is false. It is not cheaper to keep a nation prepared for war, as preparation is now understood in Europe, than it is to endure the destruction of war when it comes. No loss that war can inflict, not all the destruction and waste of a war continued for one year, is so costly as twenty years of preparation and peace. Germany has spent more since her late war with France to put herself in a position to make French revenge impossible than France lost by that war, and it seldom happens that a war is so uninterruptedly unfortunate to the arms of one side as that war was. It is a generally recognized principle that a large expenditure that is made once for all and is done with hurts less than the small regular outlay that must be kept up for uncounted years, and that is the principle of this regular expenditure for war preparation by comparison with war losses. And the worst is, that at last a nation must certainly add the war loss to the other expenditures for preparation does not prevent war and [illegible] guarantee victory.

TRADE WITH NEW ZEALAND

The Auckland Star of the 5th January has an article on the increased production of Kauri gum, which is a resinous deposit from extinct forests, peculiar to that district of New Zealand. It is largely exported to the United States, where it is used in the manufacture of varnish. It is estimated by a competent authority that from $150 000 to $200 000 a month English and American money is being invested in that business. Fair gum sells on spot at $325 a ton and gum diggers earn from $40 to $50 a week. The Star remarks upon these facts:

This is about the only product which America under her protective policy allows the colony to exchange for all the canned goods cutlery Yankee notions and other United States products which are consumed in New Zealand. The balance of exchange is very heavily against us every year. How our cousins manage to get their direct account settled we don't exactly know as the export of billion is very insignificant. If they would only open their markets to our wool we should be able to do more business with them and give their manufacturers a chance against our common pater's foreign trade. As they won't let us settle accounts in wool we suppose there is

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by the eager by [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] enjoying their

All the strength of the public schools under the system which has been growing up for several years past is wasted upon an infinity of petty details. The new fashions in education are as numerous and flashy as the new fashions in millinery. Teachers do no end of work on trivialities and scholars are confused by a system which dumps upon them an indefinite quantity of unassorted rubbish and expects them to assimilate and absorb it. A strike must be made to restore the simplicity and effective ness of the common schools. Under the present system loaded down with superfluities and complicated nonsense good foundations in education are scarcely possible. It is absurd to think of depending on so shallow a system for solid education. It may graduate the young woman to sit in the parlor window and wait for a beau and the young man to loaf on the street corners and smoke cigarettes, but there are few indeed who will come up under it fitted for the active and practical business of life. And such as do come up so triumph in spite of it rather than through its aid. It is for people who hate shams to speak their mind on this subject and not only to speak but to act and enforce the almost forgotten theory that it is the people who control the public schools.

We should have no hope of arriving at truth about facts by mere manipulation of dogmatic phrases in competition with the editor of the Catholic Sentinel. Nothing of course could convince him that the authority of the church is not in all things absolutely infallible nor should we wish if we could to disturb him in that belief. It must be apparent that it would be quite profitless to engage in discussion with one who takes a stand on ecclesiastical dogmas and holds them to be of unquestionable infallibility. Hence THE OREGONIAN sees no reason to accept the request of the Sentinel course as it is, to "controvert" certain positions stated by Cardinal Manning. For those who do not concede the claim of the church to direct the individual life of man not only but the collective life of nations"—which is the old controversy of a large part of mankind with the Catholic church—the cardinal's positions are "controverted" already. On the other hand, in the judgment of those who maintain this claim, they cannot be controverted. There is no common ground on which an examination can be had, and hence no use of multiplying words that only darken counsel.

In one form or another that scheme for a prodigious grab out of the national treasury on pretence of equalizing soldiers bounties is continually [illegible] in congress. Next Monday [illegible] will introduce it in a form which will require not only $100,000,000 to meet [illegible] but the services of 250 clerks [illegible] to adjust the accounts. The Finley is an Ohio man who has always been rampant for silver, greenbacks and every absurdity of "cheap" money. Early in the session he drew his accrued pay and mileage for several months, amounting to something over a thousand dollars, and was given more than a hundred standard silver dollars. Sixteen of these dollars weigh a pound, and Finley found himself laden with nearly seven pounds of silver—all his pockets full—and was very indignant about it, making some remarks that would not appear well in print. His views on the advantage of silver money were somewhat changed. But he is still the same shallow demagogue as ever.

A very proper effort was made in the house of representatives yesterday to hold the confederate brigadiers down to the requirements of the confederate constitution. This was proper enough. They should not be permitted to reject their own fundamental law.

Illinois is not going to join the Grant boom. Nor is it likely that any other state will follow the example of ring-ridden Pennsylvania.

CITY.

IMPROVING WATER STREET —The contract for the improvement of Water street from Columbia street to a point opposite Herral's brewery, has been let to Perry & Baker The street is to be improved by grading only The improvement will be very expensive to the owners of adjacent property the excavation along some blocks reaching as high as 3000 cubic yards In some places deep depressions will have to be filled requiring thousands of cubic yards of earth The opening and improvement of Water street has become a public necessity for this reason. The old macadamized road which has recently been purchased by the county authorities, passes through the property owned by Smith Bros For years the owners of this property have allowed the road to remain open, simply to accommodate the public. Since the right to travel the macadamized road free of toll has been purchased by the county, Smith Bros have concluded to close up that thoroughfare Should this be done, at present, there will be no means of reaching the road except by Water street To remedy this, it has been determined by the council to improve it and open it to travel

THE "STATE'S" ELECTRIC LIGHT —Last night the electric lights on board the State of California were exhibited as per announcement A light of 2000 candle power was attached to one of the mainstays and directed up D street. The rays penetrated the darkness as far as 13th and 14th streets and at a distance of five squares from the dock gave enough light to allow newspapers and letters to be read without difficulty Looking down D street from A, the light had the appearance of thin, filmy, blue clouds, which are seen in the west just after sundown on summer days. Three lamps were lighted in the saloon and two in the engine room, compared with them, the coal oil lamps [illegible] tallow dips. The steamer was visited by hundreds of ladies and gentlemen, who derived no little delight at the novel illumination, and D street was [illegible] with pedestrians no less interested.

LADIES IN COUNCIL

THE OREGON STATE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION

Discussion of Various Questions Preamble and Resolutions Adopted—An Interesting and Entertaining Evening Session

This meeting was marked by increased attendance prominent among the speakers being Mrs. J B Eaton of [illegible] [illegible] Mrs John Minto (Marion) and Mr H A Laughery of Yamhill Minutes of previous [illegible] read and approved

Singing by the choir

The committee on resolutions not being ready to report the president called for a volunteer song Nobody responded The president then announced herself as a sort of missing link and taking a seat at the organ sang an old time melody which was exceedingly well received

The contents of the letter box were next announced in the following order

No 1 What guaranty can the association give the public that women will always vote on the side of temperance

No 2 How can woman leave the home to engage in public life

No 3 Will not woman as a voter lose the high regard and esteem of the best men of the country

No 4 Would this association want women to be sheriffs, police officers superintendents of penitentiaries and jailers

No 5 Would you want women to become soldiers

No 6 Would good women vote if they could

(Signed) AN HONEST INVESTIGATOR

The discussion of some of these questions called out much logic considerable wit and no little merriment. The ladies proved themselves equal to every emergency and were ably assisted in their arguments by Mr Boynton Mr Duniway and Mr Cousins

The ladies declared that it was not men's province to question woman's manner of voting Men had no right to ask how they would vote unless they were known to vote always on the side of temperance themselves

Mr Duniway settled the second question by saying that he had no difficulty in running the home by proxy during his wife's absence in public life There were always plenty of good looking women to hire—cheap

The president remarked in reply to the third question that the best men of the country have a higher regard for the women who want to vote than for any others She said she was neither young nor handsome but was sure she could marry again in a month if she were a widow

Mrs. Thompson Mrs Laughery Mrs Minto Mrs Cooke and Mrs Eaton and the president disposed of the fourth question No synopsis of this discussion could do it justice

Mrs. Minto and Mrs Eaton were ready to answer the fifth question squarely in the affirmative Their experience on the border had proved that women could fight when it was necessary Mrs Thompson looked forward to the time when there shall be no more war and claimed that woman suffrage would hasten that time

In answer to the sixth question Mrs Eaton made a happy hit by saying I want to vote and I'm good

The committee on resolutions reported the following

WHEREAS Man has committed to woman the support, custody, name and ownership of children born out of wedlock and has claimed the name, custody and ownership of those born in marriage, therefore

Resolved That he should be required by law to recognize, with the mother the joint ownership custody and name of his children, whether born in or out of marriage

Resolved That the great labor reform of the age lies in giving woman the great unpaid laborer of the whole earth, the fruits of her toil

Resolved That the true financial reform of the country is to give women equal pay for equal work and 100 cents on the dollar

Resolved, That the true political reform of the times is the enfranchisement of one-half the people, who are illegally taxed without representation and wrongfully governed without consent

Resolved. That individual rights underlie all other rights, and any government based on the fact of human rights and administered on the theory of an aristocracy of sex is a constant and palpable contradiction of its own principles.

Resolved, That the members of this Association urge the women of Oregon to enlighten themselves in regard to the laws under which they live, in order that they may no longer expose their ignorance by saying "I have all the rights I want"

Resolved, That it is the duty of the women of Oregon to use all honorable means in their power to secure the elective franchise at the coming legislature.

The resolutions were adopted after considerable spirited debate.

Miss Mary Test performed a piano solo in an admirable manner and was highly applauded

Adjourned to 7.30 P M.

Evening Session.

Called to order by the president. A large audience was present. Mr. Heroy and Miss Jones, the latter at the organ led some congregational singing Miss Test performed a very fine instrumental solo, in which she fully sustained her well deserved reputation as a musician Mrs Dr McLennan gave a short address, amusing and sharp Judge W H Adams followed by a speech on "Universal Liberty" which was well received and for which the president returned the thanks of the association

The address by Mrs Belle W Cooke was able logical refined and womanly

The reading by Miss Sonora Witherill was excellent.

A song by Miss Test was also well appreciated

A discussion followed upon the following question from the letter box [illegible] the opposite side of the argument, which [illegible] held in a manner at once novel and sarcastic, creating much merriment.

Dr Thompson followed with a characteristic speech Mrs Laughery excused herself for the evening Mr Bishop being called for made some amusing remarks which ended by a little sparring between himself and the presiding officer, that was evidently enjoyed by the audience.

Dr. Bird closed the exercises by exquisite music upon the crystaline

To-morrow's sessions at 10 A. M., and 2 and 7½ P M Letter box questions correspondence resolutions music and discussions will be the order of the day The evening's exercises will be unusually interesting consisting of singing by Mrs Cruzan address by Mr. Cruzan, speeches from delegates, music by Miss Test and Mrs Simpson Dr. Bird Mr Heroy and others

Many other fallacies are contained in Dr Maclagan s article as that nitrogen and hydrogen are the chief materials for the nutrition and repair of the body The chief material of all organisms is carbon But to enter into a thorough criticism of the article would require more space than you would probably be willing to concede I therefore now conclude H

LOVE IN A THUNDER SHOWER

"I don't think I care about the nutting-picnic," said the rector's daughter, pretending to be very busy with the old gilt-banded china, which she always made a point of washing up herself after tea.

"Not care about it?" echoed Horatia Dale. "Why I always thought you went every year."

"So I always have done: but I don't think I shall go this year."

Horatia looked sharply at her face for a moment."

"Ah!" said she, shrugging her shoulders, "I see—jealous!"

"I am not!" cried Fanny Forester. "And no one shall dare to say such a thing of me!"

"Nevertheless it is true," said Miss Dale, keenly. "You are not going to the nutting party in the woods because Harvey Carroll has asked Oriana Van Velsor to accompany him. Now, deny it if you dare!"

Fanny was silent; but one or two big drops, clear diamonds, plashed down into the water where she was rinsing the gold-banded china.

"What a goose you are," said Horatia, "to go pining after a man that doesn't care for you!"

"I don't pine!" said Fanny, vehemently.

"To break your heart because Harvy Carroll prefers the gaudy city tulip to our little wild-rose of the woods!"

"I don't break my heart!" persisted Fanny.

"Come, cheer up!" said Horatia, laughing. "Miss Van Velsor returns to town to-morrow The ward school begins next week, and she must take her place as second assistant school-ma'am in Peake street. And even if she could take Harvey Carroll's recreant heart with her, why, there's this consolation—there's as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it."

"I hate vulgar proverbs!" said the rector's daughter.

"You hate Oriana Van Velsor, you mean," said Miss Dale, shrewdly.

"Horatia," cried Fanny, the slender thread of her patience giving away at once, "if you say another hateful word, I'll—"

"Come now, Fanny," said Horatia, putting both arms around the slender waist of the sobbing girl, "don't lose your temper! I'm only trying to raise your dormant spirit. Don't let this conceited city belle think she's breaking your heart; and don' let Harvey Carroll suppose he is the only man in the world. Hush! there they come up the garden path!"

"Not here?" cried breathless Fanny, the torrent of her tears checked with marvelous suddenness.

"Yes, here. Why shouldn't Miss Oriana vaunt her conquest here as well as elsewhere?"

"I won't see them!" cried Fanny stamping her slim foot on the ground.

"But you must!" commanded Miss Dale. "Do you want her to think you are a blighted blossom? No? Then brush those big drops off your eye-lashes at once and come into the parlor."

And Fanny Forrester, stung to the quick by the mingled venom of pride and jealousy, decided that it was best to obey her friend's counsel, bitter though that obedience was to her soul.

Miss Oriana Van Velsor was a tall, brilliantly complexioned young lady, who called herself five-and-twenty, and was called full seven years older by her friends—a young lady who wore her hair banged down over her forehead, after the most approved models of fashion, showed a dazzling set of teeth whenever she spoke or smiled, and generally wore a white lace veil drawn tightly, like a mask over her face.

Harvey Carroll, the handsome village lawyer, was well nigh infatuated by her metropolitan airs and graces, to the great grief of poor little Fanny Forester, who, up to this time, had always been selected as his companion in all these rural walks, rambles and festivities.

To be pitied by her mates; to be pointed at as one who had been "jilted;" above all, to [illegible] of Harvey Carroll's [illegible] sat [illegible] meals, and it never occurred to him that his blue-eyed little daughter was anything more than a child.

Miss Van Velsor giggled, flirted her fan, and shook the gold fringe of her bracelets, as Fanny Forester greeted her in a low voice, scarcely even glancing at Harvey Carroll.

"You're going to the nutting party to-morrow, of course, Miss Forester," said she.

Fanny was about to reply "No;" but she caught Horatia Dale's warning eye, and changed her answer to:

"Yes, I suppose so."

"We are going," said Miss Van Velsor—"Mr. Carroll and I. He has depicted the delights of a nutting party in such vivid colors that I really am quite anxious to participate in one. I do hope it won't rain."

"Oh, it won't rain," said Harvey Carroll.

"I don't think it will rain," said Fanny, feeling it incumbent on her to say something.

"And," Harvey added, "if you are not provided with an escort, I am sure Miss Van Velsor will be very glad to have you join our party."

"Delighted!" chimed in the radiant-complexioned Oriana.

"I thank you," interposed Miss Dale, before Fanny could summon words for a reply, "but Fanny is to go with my brother Lemuel."

Now Mr. Lemuel Dale was a good-natured old bachelor, regarded as the common property of all the girls in town.

"Yes," said Fanny, clutching at the straw of escape, "I am to go with Mr. Lemuel Dale."

And Harvey Carroll's conscience did sting him a little, as he met the glance of unconscious reproach in poor Fanny's eyes.

"She is a little jewel!" he confessed to himself. "But then she is only a pearl, and Oriana is a diamond of the purest water; and there can be no better opportunity for me to propose than in the fragrant seclusion of the autumnal woods, to-morrow."

And the morrow came—one of those brilliant, Summer-like days that seem to have been plucked out of the golden diadem of August itself, with the air scented with sweet-fern, the yellow leaves dropping softly down on the forest-moss, and the hills all blue with purple mist.

"How delightful!" lisped Miss Oriana Van Velsor, as she sat gracefully on a twisted tree-root, and drank champagne out of a silver cup, with her lap full of glossy satin-husked nuts, and a plate of sandwiches and chicken salad in front of her. "Ah, how indescribably charming is the country!"

"Could you be contented to live always?" asked Harvey Carroll, who, stretched on the green carpet at her feet, was breaking his fast on cold tongue and biscuit.

"I could desire no happier fate," said Oriana, lifting her enthusiastic eyes heavenward.

"Then—" Harvey was beginning, when honest Lemuel Dale came stumbling over the uneven ground toward them.

"I say, Carroll, what are you dreaming about?" cried he. "Don't you see the thunder-clouds piling up in the west? Don't you feel the sudden chill in the air? Everybody else is seeking shelter from the storm, while you stay here, apparently blind, deaf and dumb! Lucky for you that I came back for Miss Forester's shawl, and roused you from your dream."

And Fanny, leaning on Dale's arm, with her brown, burnished curls blowing back from her face, scarcely looked up while her companion spoke.

Miss Van Velsor caught up her lace parasol, with a shriek.

"Is it going to rain?" she cried. "Oh, I have such a dislike of thunder showers! Oh do let us go to a place of shelter somewhere—some nice old farm house, or dear old dame's honeysuckle-covered cottage."

"The nearest place is the rectory, at the foot of the hill, half a mile off," said Carroll, doubtfully.

"We shall be happy to welcome you there," spoke up Fanny Forester, unconsciously heaping coals of figurative fire on her rival's head.

"Oh do let us hurry!" cried Miss Van Velsor, catching at Carroll's arm, as the thunder broke in low, rumbling tones, and the first big drops began to patter on the leaves.

But Miss Forester and Lemuel Dale, better acquainted with the localities than the lawyer and his companion, reached the rectory by a short cut across the meadows, and were at the door to receive their dripping guests, when at last they reached the haven of refuge

Carroll surrendered Miss Van Velsor at once into Fanny's care.

"Take her up stairs, please, Miss Forester," said he, in a startled tone, "I—I think there's something the matter with her."

"Oh, I am all right!" said Miss Van Velsor, with a simper. "Only a little tired, with the haste we have made."

But Fanny started back with dismay, quite comprehending Mr. Carroll's discomfiture when she caught a glimpse of her rival's unconscious face. It was striped like that of a zebra, where the streams of rain had run in tiny channels down her brow and cheeks, the streaks of red and white paint blending curiously together, and carmine blotches from her cheeks were smeared over the white lace veil: the penciling was washed entirely from one eyebrow, the other, shielded by a fold of the lace veil, was totally unchanged, giving a curious expression to her face, like that of a clown in a pantomime. Fanny was silent, but Mr. Lemuel Dale, honest old bachelor that he was, proved less discreet.

"Excuse me, miss," said he with his eye-glasses at his eye; "but I rather think your paint is washed off."

"My—paint!" repeated Miss Van Velsor.

And then, happening to see the reflection of her face in an opposite mirror, she uttered a wild shriek, and went off into good old-fashioned hysterics.

When she came out of them again, Mr. Carroll had vanished from the scene.

Miss Oriana Van Velsor went back to the ward school in Peake street, unfettered by the golden clasp of an engagement-ring; and and they say there is soon to be a wedding at the rectory, in which pretty Fanny and Mr. Harvey Carroll are to play the principal parts.

Strange how slender a straw will suffice to turn the current of the stream of life! If it had not been for that thunder storm in the woods, the whole aspect of Miss Oriana Van Velsor's existence might have been different.

But her complexion, unlike the roses and lilies of Fanny Forester's face was not waterproof.

ON THE PROPHECIES.

OLYMPIA, Feb. 3, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your issue of January 24th contains a communication regarding a certain prophecy about Damascus, to which absence from Olympia and pressure of work while present, have prevented my giving an early reply. I do not intend following your correspondent "N." through the various wanderings of his communication; for that would be an endless task; and besides he has stated the case very fairly from his standpoint. I recur to the matter now that your readers may know that there is another way of looking at it. Believing that the ancient prophets were divinely taught concerning future events, we are willing to take any reasonable proof that their predictions have been fulfilled in their original intention. Concerning some prophecies we believe that the time has not yet come for their fulfillment The patience of God is one of his most glorious attributes. His mills grind slowly sometimes, but surely always.

Your correspondent seems to think that I accept all of verse 1 of chapter 17 of Isaiah as prophetic. On the contrary I believe with him that part of it is historical, speaking of something already a fact—"Damascus is taken away from being a city." The original Hebrew text is better rendered, "a royal city" or "the capital of a king." It is needless to say that this famous city ceased to be "the capital of a king" when the Assyrian conquerer slew its last king, Rezin, and carried off the people captives of war. (See II. Kings, 16 : 9.) By turning to Amos, chapter 1, verse 5, we find that this event was foretold about fifty years before it happened, and in so minute a manner that the exact place to which the captives should be taken is mentioned. Be[illegible] was the capital of [illegible] place whither the captive inhabitants should be sent my reason compels me to believe that superhuman foresight was possessed by Amos.

Reading the words of Isaiah, chapter xvii, first, it is well to notice that they do not say that every individual inhabitant of Damascus should leave the city. The succeeding verses indicate that a remnant should be left in the land. The prophetic portion of the verse still remains to be explained. But first let us see what it really says. Our translation reads, "it shall be a ruinous heap." The Hebrew text is more literally rendered, "a city of fallen buildings or ruins." Some Assyrians were sent to Damascus after its capture by Tiglath Pileser. But how long after this capture those colonists went thither, we have no means of knowing. A very few years of partial depopulation, following the inevitable damage consequent upon its assault and capture by the horde of barbarians who composed the army of the Assyrian conqueror, would be sufficient to reduce Damascus to the condition of a city of "fallen buildings" or ruins; not of necessity a city of which all houses had fallen, but one containing many ruins. When we remember that somewhere about twenty years after its capture by Tiglath Pileser, and deposition from the status of a "royal city," Damascus was again plundered by the army of Sennacherib. And then turn to Jeremiah xlix., 23d, (written about 50 or 60 years after the death of Rezin), and read: "Damascus is waxed feeble, * * * Anguish and sorrow have taken her." We have found all the conditions and facts required to convince any reasonable man that Isaiah was correct in his predictions: "It shall be a city of fallen buildings." Notice that though thus dilapidated, it is expressly stated that she shall continue to be a city.

The stem word of the original Hebrew text is the same as that which, because of the necessary change in its full form, is translated properly "royal city" or "capital of a king."

How long would it take the city of Portland to get into a condition of which the prophet's words concerning the subsequent condition of Damascus, would be an exact description, if nine-tenths (more or less) of her inhabitants were carried off as war captives—after an assault and plundering, and a probable burning, by an army of wild barbarians, like that of the ancient Assyrian king?

Did we not speak of Chicago being "burned" and "in ruins" a few years ago; though a large portion of it was uninjured by the devouring flames, and there were tens of thousands of its people living within their homes? Still it was really in the general sense of the word a city of fallen buildings or ruins.

This habit of using general language is very common with us. Every intelligent man understands what it means, and despises the quibbling which takes it to pieces in order to find out any disagreement with the exact letter of the facts.

I am very well aware that radical Unitarians and other infidels might take some of the above mentioned facts and build upon them an attempt to show that Isaiah foresaw the future state of Damascus by ordinary wisdom and intelligence. That is a barely possible way of accounting the actual facts. I might accept it if this were the only prophecy in holy writ, and if the seer had not subscribed his statement in the name of "The Lord God of Israel." Regarding Isaiah as a truthful man, and no forger, I am compelled to believe that he received his facts from the divine teacher, and gave them forth, not as simple conjecture, but as absolute foreknowledge. By the same divine teaching, and by that alone, is explainable the exact fulfillment of the prophecy of Amos, already quoted, as well as those other predictions which, with amazing minuteness of detail, describe the subsequent condition of Nineveh, Babylon, Tyre, Sidon, Petra, the giant cities of Bashan, and numerous other cities and future events, few of which seemed possible, when the prediction was made, unless a divine hand lifted the veil of the future and revealed things unknowable by the wisest merely human forethought.

Though the divine Christ would still be a fact, and the gospel of his love and purity true, even if some advanced infidel should perform the miracle of showing that all the ancient prophets were liars, and their pretended foreknowledge a fiction; yet I believe that prophecies fulfilled are a precious and soul comforting outer bulwark of the impregnable fortress of Christian truth. So believing, I was attempting to present a few of the most notable of them to my congregation, by a course of Sunday evening lectures, when I was charged by the Unitarian Advocate with "twisting and adapting history to suit prophecies," and the "suggestion" made that I should "take up the burden of Damascus." To a "suggestion" accompanied by such an imputation of dishonesty, and followed by a sarcastic intimation that the words of the prophet were not true, the answer ought to be returned, as your correspondent says, "somewhat sharply." To you and your readers I have fairly proved "beyond a reasonable doubt" that the old prophet's words are a remarkably correct portraiture of the actual facts in the reviewed case. Skeptics may account for all the facts, in a manner different from that of the great body of Christian biblical criticism, if they can; but it is not a wise or safe line of argument to change the facts, putting into the bible statements that are not there, in order to prove that the sacred book says what is not true.

Thanking you for the use of your valuable columns, I remain yours truly,

J. R. THOMPSON,
Pastor Presbyterian Church.

Domestic Produce.

Some readers seem hard to instruct in the meaning of the terms used in the matters referring to trade and commerce. A "Subscriber" last week wanted to know why we did not quote wheat at so much a bushel, and now another wants to know if our prices as given are always the highest obtainable. In explanation to the latter we can only say that our aim is to give the figures at which a farmer can sell his crop of any considerable amount from 500 bushels to 5000. Occasionally as one day since the late rise, a sale was reported at $1 97½ alongside ship, the lot consisting of over 30,000 bushels, but these figures did not indicate the rate which farmers would have found at that time, with their much smaller parcels. Ordinary lots at the time would have been difficult to place at more than $1 90. The feeling to-day is much as it has been for several days past, one of an upward tendency and more confident tone on part of holders, some of whom have declined offers of $1 95, and others expressing confidence in ultimately obtaining the round figure of $2 per cental. The fact that the vessels now at hand under charter have their cargoes about all in sight leaves the market without existing pressure to buy, as millers generally are well stocked. Considering the obstacles to inland transportation, the movement since the turn of the year has been quite large embracing ten vessels with wheat and flour, and one with flour, while the eight or ten vessels on the berth are more or less forward with their loading, and some of them will be dispatched within three or four days. At this writing the tonnage supply at hand is light, but the arrival of several ships would not be an unexpected event any day. Charters are not readily effected as owners are holding for better figures, about 50s being the price now obtainable to the United Kingdom. There is but one vessel in port suitable for the trade, disengaged, though negotiations are not concluded in regard to another.

It is difficult to name the exact figures which would be paid for a good lot of wheat in the local market to-day, quotations ranging all the way from $1 87½ to $1 95. None could buy at the first, and many not of the market would decline to pay the latter figure, though it might be obtained. The figures $1 90@1 92½ would be more nearly descriptive of the market.

Flour has remained steady during the entire period of excitement through which the raw material has passed, and offerings have been ample to check any advance to correspond with the rise in wheat. Stocks at state mills and in the hands of agents are reported as good with no special demand.

Oats have ruled weak, and buyers have operated on a small scale, except at a reduction. The inquiry has not been large or active. [illegible] farmer have been [illegible] Shipments are inconsiderable.

Dairy products are in fair supply and prices steady. Eggs jobbing at 22½ cents, with prospects of a decline. Poultry in rather better demand and prices higher.

Wool, hides, etc., in fair demand at quotations.

THE MARK LANE REPORT.

LONDON Feb. 12.—The Mark Lane Express' review of the British grain trade for the past week says frost has disappeared and the weather has been showery since Saturday. Some little progress has been made with field work which is still behind hand in some districts. The land however is now in good workable condition. Reports relative to winter sown wheat are favorable in those districts where it has appeared above the surface. The damp weather is unfavorable to threshing. Really dry samples are practically unobtainable. Even fair average lots are rare. Trade both at Mark Lane and in the country has been exceedingly dull in consequence of this and the bad condition, and millers would scarcely look at English wheat. Last Monday a decline of 1s@2s per quarter was quoted even on best parcels, the provincial markets following suit.

Dense fogs also variously interfered with business in London.

Imports of foreign wheat into London have been moderate, but at Liverpool arrivals were more liberal. Last Monday's decline of 1s per quarter has not been recovered as the consumptive demand was very small; but there has been no further reduction. As regards the speculation for a rise in America, taking into consideration the fact that of American wheat the surplus is not much if anything in excess of European needs, it is quite probable that prices may eventually adjust themselves without a great rise here or a great fall in America; but at present the question seems to be simply who can hold out longest.

Arrivals at ports of call have been considerable, though red winter wheats are very scarce. There was great depression early in the week, but since then, owing to an advance in America and a large quantity of wheat taken from the coast for continental ports, prices have advanced 6d to 1s per quarter, with more demand both for the United Kingdom and for the continent.

There was a fair inquiry for maize at an advance of about 6d per quarter. Buyers show no disposition to enter into a forward business, either for wheat or maize.

Sales of English wheat last week were 37,812 qrs. at 44s 2d per qr, against 63,736 qrs. at 38s 1d per qr for the corresponding week last year.

Imports into the U. K. during the week ending Jan. 31st, were 1,009,439 cwts of wheat and 168,053 cwts flour.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Clipper freights apparently more active to-day by the improved inquiry from shippers who have discovered that the steamers are now about to open a fight against Cape lines, and they are now more anxious to place their freights.

Rates remain about steady at last quotations. The steamer sailed hence to-day with a very full cargo, particularly for the California market, including 40 packages tobacco, 35 barrels machinery oil, 200 boxes soap, 25 cases sardines, 28 cases olive oil, 50 barrels sperm oil, 10 barrels currants, 40 bags spices, 350 cases canned goods, 140 bags sumac, 718 cases boots and shoes, 59 pkgs dry goods, 50 cases and 50 octaves wines, 50 boxes candles, 200 cases yeast powders, 61 rolls carpet, 100 cases oilcloth, 1800 kegs nails, 154 pigs lead, 430 bdls wire, 1059 pkgs iron.

Although this was the day which the agent of the Pacific Mail Co. wanted shippers to call and make time contracts as per new tariff, they were not prepared to make any offers to them, but stated they were not ready. Many shippers were disappointed and gave way to their feelings by denouncing the whole matter as a stock jobbing affair. On the other hand the officials state that they are in no hurry to push this matter, but are doing very well and will keep their promise to make a new tariff and contracts, and will have a schedule ready in a few days. In the meantime the Clyde is loading with freight crowded out of to-day's steamer, and with some additional freight will sail on Wednesday next.

Markets dull. Breadstuffs are depressed and dull and in the absence of shipping demand, which has wholly subsided, shippers do not look for any change for the balance of the season on account of hard times in Europe.

Flour 5@10c and wheat 2@2½c lower.

Provisions—Dull and lower—5c on lard and 10c on pork.

Rio Coffee—Fair demand and nominally steady.

Refined Sugar—Moderately active and steady.

Teas—Slow.

Turpentine—Quiet and firmer at 47½c.

Shipping Intelligence.

It is not decided yet whether the Mattie Macleay after arriving at Honolulu will return to this port or go into other service.

The steamship State of California will leave in the morning for San Francisco. She takes out a fair cargo.

The British bark Celaeno was towed to the east side, where she received wheat this afternoon.

The British bark Lizzie Iredale was towed to Pacific dock to receive balance of cargo at this port. It is expected she will be taken to Astoria in the morning.

The British ship Aberystwith Castle has discharged ballast and will commence receiving cargo. She takes wheat and flour.

The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg will load here for Honolulu, and from the latter place will probably go to San Francisco.

Negotiations are pending for one of the vessels in port, but not closed at this writing. Affairs private.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast,

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

LANDS,

PEN D'OREILLE DIVISION.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5,000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pen d'Oreille Division in Eastern Oregon, which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located from the month of Snake River, in Washington Territory, to Lake Pen d'Oreille, in Idaho. These lands, of unexcelled fertility, and adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired, are offered by the Railroad Company at such prices and terms as cannot fail to induce settlement and cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country, and increase in value to those who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company, passed November 19th, 1879, fixes the cash price of land to actual settlers at two dollars and sixty cents per acre, which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been voluntarily placed upon its lands by any land grant company. This is, in fact, cheaper than the settler can purchase the same class of land of the Government under the pre-emption law, for the expense attending the making of final proof, and the journey to the land office which he must necessarily make in order to complete his entry, is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at Government price of $2 50 per acre, with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting, surveying and conveying said land.

This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands, nor to lands chiefly valuable for timber, nor to lands required for town sites or suitable for manufacturing sites, nor in regions where water is scarce to lands containing springs or other natural supply, where it shall be for the interest of settlers at large that such water privileges shall not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual; nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road."

To persons wishing to purchase on time, the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms: One fourth cash at time of purchase, the balance in three equal yearly payments at 7 per cent. interest. The above price for time sales is adopted for the present, but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company notices of intention to purchase, or "Settlers' Applications," as they are called, for land in this Division (except for the class of lands [illegible] of the resolution above given) [illegible] the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at Colfax.

Persons who have not made actual settlement or improvement upon land they may have applied for, have no right to the first privilege of purchase; such lands will be sold to the first applicant. Those persons who have in good faith settled upon and improved the Company's land should lose no time in securing the same, as after a given time the land is subject to sale to any other person.

The land in this division being now offered for sale, no more "Settlers' Applications" will be filed.
